

SAUSALITO, CALIFORNIA

The curving birch sink gives a streamlined look to this 4X6-foot powder room in the home of Mike and Raina Sobel. "We designed the wood shelves and credenza to complement the lines of the wall-mounted sink," says architect Barbara Brown. "It's earthy yet modern." The toilet features a matching wood seat. The cabinetry also echoes the look of the nearby kitchen's millwork, enhancing the visual flow. Contrasting with the bathroom's light wood tones, pewter-hued glass tiles cover one wall, floor to ceiling. "The tiles are dramatic and dark, but shimmer in the light," Raina says.

A DRAWER BENEATH THE SINK holds linens and supplies. Display shelves create a tailored look. A slatted wood ceiling filters illumination from a skylight added to heighten the space. The mirror is inset into the tile wall.

PHOTOGRAPHS: THIS PAGE, JAMIE HADLEY; OPPOSITE, KEITH SCOTT MORTON